Administration

Dear Members of the Class of 2004:

This yearbook chronicles your high school years. You have the distinction of being the first class to spend all four years in what has become your building. You have the good fortune of being in our school when all the fields and tennis courts have been available to support the program.

You are an exceptional class. Among your classmates are truly outstanding musicians, artists, actors, athletes and students. Your class had provided leadership to the school in all these areas. Your strong efforts have earned us the designation of a Compass School by the Massachusetts Department of Education. It is truly noteworthy that among your senior class are eight National Merit students.

Your yearbook will chronicle your success over the past four years. As you move forward to the next phase of your life, the memories pictured here will serve as reminders of the most enjoyable moments of your high school experience. On behalf of the faculty and staff, we would like to thank you for your cooperation and efforts. We wish each of you the very best as you begin life's journey. We have enjoyed being a part of your growth and development.

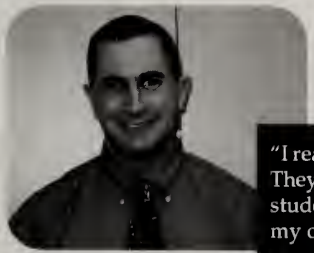
Mock Trial

"There is nothing more fun than getting points for how well you fight with someone! Though a lot of work, this is one of the best clubs I have ever been in. The people make it special. Thanks for making it fun guys and keep the bickering alive!"

-Haley Silverman

The goal of the Mock Trial program is for the students to increase their understanding of the law, court procedures, and the legal system while allowing them an opportunity to take part in all aspects of a court trial in competition with other schools from Massachusetts.



"I really enjoy doing Mock Trial. They are a great bunch of students to work with, as well as my own coaches."

National Honor Society

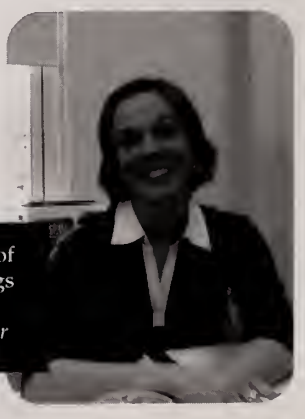
"I enjoy being a member of National Honor Society because it provides me with an opportunity to give back to the school."

-Leslie Conway

The National Honor Society is an organization that recognizes and encourages academic achievement, while further developing other characteristics essential to all citizens.

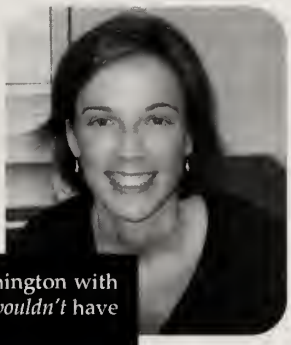
"I am honored to be a part of National Honor Society, because it truly is a National Honor Society."

-David O'Leary



"This is really an excellent group of students and I expect great things from them in the future."

-Molly Smith, advisor



"A week in Washington with this group--who wouldn't have a good time?"
-Molly Smith, advisor

Project Close-Up gives students an opportunity to visit Washington DC for an up close look at how our government works.

Project Close-Up

–Georgia Wolfe

Science League

The mission of Science League is to stimulate interest and achievement in science, provide recognition to talented students, and to challenge students to explore the fun side of science competition.

"These students will be building tomorrow's technology and creating new applications for scientific knowledge."

-Matt Guarnera, advisor

"Student government is a really fun organization where students get to voice their opinions in the school. The School Committee seriously considers what we propose and therefore this club can make a great impact on the student body."

-Josepline Niepoort

The purpose of the student government is to promote and represent the interests of the entire student body, to make and suggest policies related to student concerns, and to serve as the student voice in the decision-making process.

"Student Government is a great place for students to get involved in the policies of school and have a voice in changing their working environment for the better."

-Jayna McInnis

Student Government

"The student government allows students the opportunity to enact political change through organizing and providing public service. It is a forum that encourages students to take on leadership roles that promote school improvement, general civic awareness and responsibility."

The purpose of the yearbook is to capture the essence of the student body. This book preserves the memories of the 2003-2004 school year. We hope it will make you smile and remember your high school years. Continue to celebrate your unique sense of individuality.

Cheers!

Yearbook

"Yearbook Class allows students to become more involved with the production process without interfering with their extracurricular schedules. I was glad to have the opportunity to take part in this activity."

-Sarah Harrington

"Yearbook Class afforded students not only the opportunity but also the time to produce a truly professional book. I am thankful to the students who came to class each day prepared to work and willing to do whatever was necessary to meet deadlines. Because of their creativity, tenacity, determination and enthusiasm, the 2004 yearbook really is a defining achievement."

One year gone. One year on our journey through high school and we have so much to show for it. There are countless stops we are going to make through the next three years and the first was surprisingly easier than we all thought it would be. Going into this school was hard in 6th grade, and even harder freshman year, but the class of 2007 came through good times and bad with so little scars. Our class is so strong and so numerous that it just comes easily for us to be united and we showed off that skill more this year than any other. I hope we all agree in thanking everyone who helped us along the way. People who helped out and participated in fundraisers, and people who came to the dances and took part in spirit week. It is because of all of you that our freshman year went by with enthusiasm and optimism. That is one stop made on the road to greatness and one more thing to be proud of. So I welcome all of the class of 2007 and other classes also, to celebrate a year past, a year past that we can look back on and really appreciate what our school has to offer.

Cross-country in a RV with your best buds...

Tour of Australia with your best friend...

Now, I don't know your plans to make your last summer before college the best summer ever. In fact, I don't even know what our class is going to do to make our last week of school the best week ever. However, I do know that this is another year passed; another year completed; another year gone. We are one year closer to senior year, the last year we are all together. We are halfway to senior week, our caps and gowns, prom and college. Over the next two years, just keep ideas for our last days together in the back of your minds. This has been another successful year thanks to our advisors, your parents and all of you. People say don't forget your roots, but always keep in mind the future as we keep moving farther and farther to it.

We have made it this far! The first three years of high school flew by faster than we imagined, and we only have senior year left. Just like they say, save the best for last. Next year will be awesome! We were able to win Spirit Week (a task that is hard to meet as juniors) and we are financially successful due to all the fundraising efforts put forth so far. Thank you to all the students and especially parents, who gave donations not only of their money, but more importantly, their time. The Fashion Show last year could not have been completed without the hard work of many people. Next year, I am sure we will do just as well at our Senior Fashion Show in the fall. Our list of achievements and great memories has been growing, and next year is our last together as a united class, so let us make the most of the moment and have a great year. Who could sum up the Class of 2004 in a word? In the many, many years that we've known each other, we've developed into a truly unique group of individuals. We've learned to appreciate each other not just as classmates, but as people. We've got all types, all talents—and probably a few cases of healthy insanity. It's great. We've been through many memorable experiences together; many events which we will never forget.

There were times when we never thought that the day would come when we would finally walk out of the first floor pod into the blinding sunlight of the real world. But here we are, suddenly, at the end! Only when we look back do we see how much we've changed and how much knowledge we've gained during our time here. The past four years are still fresh in our memory. The future is more or less blank. But the beauty of it is this: the future is blank, it's ours—ours to fill with color and creative life in whatever path we choose to follow.

Before we step outside, let's remember to thank all of the faculty, friends, coaches, and fellow students who have helped us appreciate Ipswich High. It's these people who are the real essence of this school, whether they're good friends or only distant faces in the hallway. They're all important, and they've all been there for us in our happiest (and sometimes our darkest) hours.

In particular, the class officers would like to thank the yearbook staff for all their excellent hard work; our supportive faculty; our dedicated class advisor, Cathy Sutherby; and (of course) all of you—every single member of the Class of 2004. You guys are a great group of people to have grown up with. My only advice is: continue to be great people. Turn your dreams into reality.

Remember that blank canvas, that new future? Take it, and make it into a masterpiece. It's yours! Good luck to you all!

In Loving Memory of

Lisa Sparaco

Lisa

Such a beautiful thing life is,
And yet so frail.
A beautiful flower,
Struck down by winter hail.
Taken too early
Only seventeen years of age.
We all wish you were here
For just one more day.
Of love, pain, and anger
Are the tears we cry.
We look to the sky
And ask the Lord why?
Who are you to choose
When her time has come?
We resent your decision,
Knowing you picked the wrong one.

A hopeful mind with everything to gain.
Your voice will echo every time it rains.
Over time our memories will hold true.
Never doubt that we wouldn't forget about you.
One was lost,
But all have gained.
A new angel lives,
Lisa's her name.
Now that you are laid down to sleep.
We beg the Lord your soul to keep.
Watching over us from above.
Your spirit grows with our love.

-Tommy Durfee

And stay true.
Don't let anyone bring you down,
Because your life is up to you!"

To Cathy Sutherby

On behalf of the class of 2004, the class officers would like to thank our senior class advisor, Mrs. Sutherby, for her support in organizing fundraisers and class events. Her hard work and dedication to our class has helped make our time at IHS memorable. We really appreciate the time she has put in to her busy schedule to help us out.

Thanks, Mrs. Sutherby!

Get In Step With Success

We instill courage, discipline and compassion in the minds of our young Martial Arts students. We shape them to become leaders of societies.

Tokyo Joe's has followed this path successfully for many years. Our graduates have gone on to become very successful in their chosen professions. Bring your child to our school so that he/she too can become the leader of tomorrow.

Visit our Martial Arts school and see our students in action.

Our Martial Artists fully understand the meaning of integrity and merit.

From the Class of 2004

To Mrs. Welch

Thank you for helping and supporting us. Your guidance has been invaluable, and your positive attitude has motivated us to do our best. We couldn't have accomplished this without you!

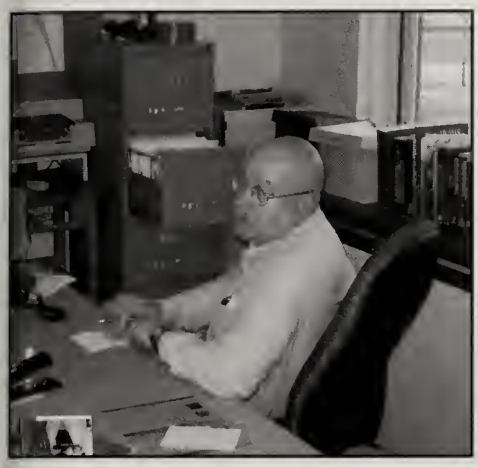
We were extremely fortunate to have you in class, and you have remained an unfailingly incredible advisor throughout the entire process. We wish you the best of luck in the future.

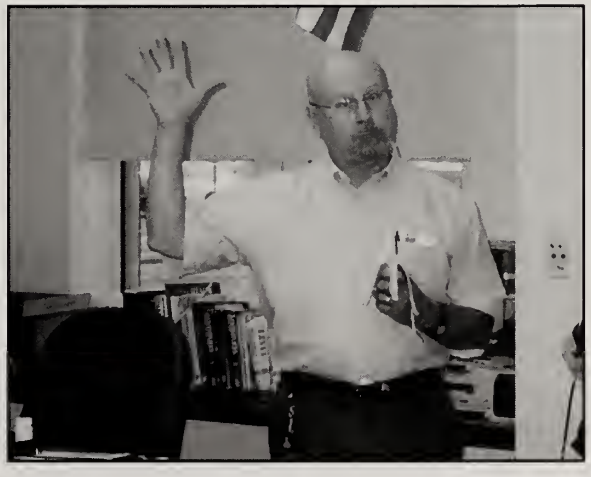
Love,

The Yearbook Staff

"There is no reason why good cannot triumph as often as evil. The triumph of anything is a matter of organization. If there are such things as angels, I hope that they are organized along the lines of the Mafia."

-Kurt Vonnegut





Thank you, Mr. Laakso, for your many years of devotion and inspiration. We will all miss you. Good luck in the years to come!
